REPORT OF THE SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS.

To the School Board:

Herewith I have the honor to present my annual school report for the year 1924-1925.

Can the Auburn children figure and spell? A set of examination questions in Arithmetic given to the ninth grade children in Springfield, Massachusetts, in 1846, for admission to high school, was found a few years ago. It is a matter of common knowledge that Arithmetic in those days was greatly emphasized. This test was given to the eighth grade pupils of Auburn in November, 1923. The Springfield children averaged fifteen and one-half years old. The Auburn children averaged a little over fourteen, and were in the eighth grade. The average rank received in Springfield was 29 per cent; the average for the state of New Hampshire was 49 per cent; the average for Auburn 49 per cent.

A spelling test was also discovered which had been given in Springfield at the same time as the Arithmetic test mentioned above. An equivalent test in spelling was given in Auburn in November, 1923, with these results: Springfield in 1846 with an average of 41 per cent; New Hampshire in 1923 with an average of 67 per cent; Auburn with an average of 87 per cent. Hooray for Auburn!

Last spring form two of the Stanford Achievement test was given to all the Auburn schools. Form one had been given in the fall. A decided improvement in the scholastic attainments of the children was shown as compared with the results secured earlier in the year, and the earlier results as explained in my report for 1923-1924 were satisfactory.

Early in the spring of 1924 I called a teachers' meeting at school No. Two. The purpose of the meeting was to have an understanding with the teachers as to what should be done regarding overage and backward children in the various grades; basis on which promotions should be made; and to formulate a graduation program for the various schools.

A very interesting graduation program was presented last June at Prescott's hall. Eight pupils were awarded diplomas for having honorably completed the course of study prescribed by the school board. Graduation has become a permanent custom. The young people of the town look forward to it as the great event of the year.

During the summer months while the school world is enjoying peace, and contentment, the school board's and the superintendent's duties still go on. Financial reports, statistical reports, repairs to school houses, hiring teachers, and attendance at institutes must be tended to, not to mention many other matters of more or less importance which require constant work and attention. Multiply the superintendent's share in these tasks by five, and you will get a clear conception as to whether supervising schools is merely holding an office, or performing service in the interest of education.

When all is said and done the greatest test of any school system is the quality of instruction and the actual accomplishment of the child. It has been my privilege and duty to take a direct part in these phases of school work. Suffice it to say that teachers and superintendent have worked harmoniously in a sort of partnership, to efficiently prepare the Auburn boys and girls for intelligent living, and for further education in higher institutions of learning.

Beside the supervision of the teachers' work, which has to do with questions of discipline, school management, methods of teaching, material of instruction, and the enforcement of the rules and regulations of the state and local boards of education, during the fall term this year I have given in all the schools the following tests: Forms one of Scale for problems in Arithmetic by E. R. Buckingham, and of Thorndike McCall's Reading Scale. The results secured were tabulated and graphed, then discussed with the teachers. Giving tests of this kind is as beneficial to a school system, as taking account of stock is to a business man. Forms two of the same tests will be given in the spring term to see whether or not the advancement which should follow after a year's study, has actually taken place.

Perhaps enough has been said in previous school reports concerning the importance of punctual attendance, inexcusable absence from school, children's health, vaccination, and improvement of school buildings. These considerations are just as important now as they ever were. Let us remember that the law is no respecter of persons. Every worthy citizen responds cheerfully when called upon by the Commonwealth to perform civic duties, be it through the selectmen, the school board, the board of health, the superintendent of schools, or any other legally appointed officer in the interest and welfare of society.

Respectfully submitted,

VINCENT GATTO,
Superintendent of Schools.
